MOST MIGHTY AND ALL-KNOWING LORD

The Teares or Lamentacions of a Sorrowfull Soule (1614): No. 25

William Leighton (c.1565-1622)  Thomas Weelkes (1576-1623)
ed. Ross Jallo

Most mighty and all-knowing Lord, most mighty and all-knowing Lord, true spring of conso-lation, true spring of conso-lation: I do confess with heart and word, Thou art my preser-va-tion, my preser-va-tion.

Most mighty and all-knowing Lord, mighty and all-knowing Lord, true spring of conso-lation, true spring of conso-lation: I do confess with heart and word, Thou art my preser-va-tion, my preser-va-tion.

Most mighty and all-knowing Lord, all-knowing Lord, true spring of conso-lation, true spring of conso-lation: I do confess with heart and word, I do confess word, Thou art my preser-va-tion, my preser-va-tion.

Most mighty and all-knowing Lord, most mighty and all-knowing Lord, true spring of conso-lation, true spring of conso-lation: I do confess with heart and word, Thou art my preser-va-tion, my preser-va-tion.

Most mighty and all-knowing Lord, mighty and all-knowing Lord, true spring of conso-lation, true spring of conso-lation: I do confess with heart and word, Thou art my preser-va-tion, my preser-va-tion.

Most mighty and all-knowing Lord, all-knowing Lord, true spring of conso-lation, true spring of conso-lation: I do confess with heart and word, I do confess word, Thou art my preser-va-tion, my preser-va-tion.

Most mighty and all-knowing Lord, most mighty and all-knowing Lord, true spring of conso-lation, true spring of conso-lation: I do confess with heart and word, Thou art my preser-va-tion, my preser-va-tion.
