1. My thoughts that often mount the skies, Go search the world beneath. Where nature all, Where nature all in ruin lies, Where nature all in ruin lies, And owns And owns And owns her sovereign death. Where

2. The tyrant, how he triumphs here!
His trophies spread around!
And heaps of dust and bones appear
Through all the hollow ground.

5. O that unfathomable sea!
Those deeps without a shore!
Where living waters gently play,
Or fiery billows roar.

6. Thus must we leave the banks of life,
And try this doubtful sea:
Vain are our groans and dying strife
To gain a moment's stay.
