If my complaints could passions move from The First booke of Ayres

John dowland
Edited by Anders Stenberg

1. If my complaints could passions moue, my passions weare e-nough to prooue,

1. If my com plaints could passions moue, could passions moue, or my passions weare e-nough to prooue, enough to prooue, that

1. If my com plaints could passions moue, could passions moue, or my passions weare e-nough to prooue, enough to prooue, that or make louve see wherein i suffer wrong: O louve I that my des-payrs had gou-ernd me to long, thy wounds do make louve see wherein i suffer wrong: O louve I my des-payrs had gou-ernd me too long, thy wounds do liue and dye in thee thy griefe in fresh-ly bleed in mee my hart for liue, I live and dye in thee thy griefe in fresh-ly, fresh-ly bleed in mee my hart for liue and dye I liue and die in thee thy griefe in fresh-ly bleed, do fresh-ly bleed in me, my hart for liue and dye in thee thy griefe, thy fresh-ly bleed in mee my hart, my my deep sighs, still speaks, yet thou dost thy v'n-kind v'n-kindness breaks, thou saist thou

my deep sighs, deep sighs still speaks, yet thou dost
thy v'n-kind v'n-kindness breaks, thou saist thou

griefe in my deep sighs still speaks, hart for thy v'n-kindness breaks, hope when I despair, and when I canst my harms repair, yet for repair, hope, dost hope when I despair, and when I canst, thou canst my harms repair, yet for repair,

hope when I despair, and when I canst my harms repair, yet for repair and when I yet for repair

That I desire it is thy worth,
That I do liue it is thy power,
That I was more true to loue, then loue to me.

2.
Can loue be Ritch and yet I want,

3.
If loue doth make mens liues too soure

Is loue my iudge and yet I am condem’n’d?

Let me not loue, nor liue hencforth

Thou plenty hast, yet me dost scant,

Die shall my hopes, but not my faith

Thou made a god, and yet thy power contemn’d.

That you that of my fall may heaters be

That I do liue it is thy power,

May here despaire, which truly saith

That I desire it is thy worth,

I was more true to loue, then loue to me.