The lowest trees have tops

John Dowland (1562-1626)

Soprano
The lowest trees have tops, the ant her gall, The Where waters smoothest run, deep are the fords, the

Alto
The lowest trees have tops, the ant her gall, The Where waters smoothest run, deep are the fords, the

Tenor
The lowest trees have tops, the ant her gall, The Where waters smoothest run, deep are the fords, the

Bass
The lowest trees have tops, the ant her gall, The Where waters smoothest run, deep are the fords, the

Practice

fly her spleen, the little spark his heat, And slender di-al stirs, yet none perceives it move: the firmest

Fly her spleen, the little spark his heat, And slender
di-al stirs, yet none perceives it move: the firmest

Fly her spleen, the little spark his heat, And slender
di-al stirs, yet none perceives it move: the firmest

Fly her spleen, the little spark his heat, And slender
di-al stirs, yet none perceives it move: the firmest

The lowest trees have tops - Dowland hares cast shadows though but small, And bees have stings all faith is in the fewest words, The turtles cannot though they be not great, Seas have their source, and sing, and yet they love, True hearts have eyes and

The lowest trees have tops - Dowland
so have shallow springs, ears, no tongues to speak:

And They

love is love in beggars and in kings, hear and see, and sigh, and then they break.

springs, And love is love in beggars and in kings, speak: They hear and see, and sigh, and then they break.

And love is love in beggars and in kings,
They hear and see, and sigh, and then they break.