Unquiet thoughts

John Dowland
(1563-1626)

1. Unquiet thoughts your civil
2. But what can stay my thoughts
3. How shall I then gaze on vil slaughter stint, And wrap your wrongs they may not start, Or put my tongue my mistress' eyes? My thoughts must have vil slaughter stint, And wrap your wrongs withmay not start, Or put my tongue in mis- tress' eyes? My thoughts must have some

vil slaughter stint, And wrap your wrongs with-they may not start, Or put my tongue in my mistress' eyes? My thoughts must have some

James Gibb editions with-in a pen-sive heart: And in dur-ance for to die?

some vent, else heart will break.

And you, my tongue, that makes my dur-ance for to die? When as these eyes, the keys of vent, else heart will break. My tongue would rust, as in my in a pen-sive heart, a pen-sive heart: And you, my dur-ance for to die, for_______ to die? When as these eyes, when vent, else heart will break, else heart will break. My tongue would you, my tongue, that makes_______ my mouth a mint, as these eyes, the keys_______ of mouth and heart, tongue would rust, as in_______ my mouth it lies, mouth a mint, that makes_______ my mouth_______ a mint, And mouth and heart, the keys_______ of mouth_______ and heart, O-mouth it lies, as in_______ my mouth_______ it lies, If you, my tongue, that makes my mouth a mint, And as these eyes, the keys of mouth and heart, Otongue would rust, as in my mouth it lies, If tongue, that makes my mouth a mint, eyes, the keys of mouth and heart, rust, as in my mouth it lies,

And stamps my thoughts to coin them words by stamp.
Open the lock where all my love doth stamp.
If eyes and thoughts were free, and that not pen the lock where all my love doth stamp.
stamps my thoughts to coin them words by pen the lock where all my love doth stamp.

Be still: for if you speak. I'll seal them up with - I'll seal them up with - speak. Speak then, and tell the passions of their lids

Be still: for if you doth lie;
my love doth lie;
speak. Speak then, and tell e- ver do the like, I'll cut the string, I'll in their lids for ever: So thoughts and words, so pas-sions of de-sire; Which turns mine eyes, which the like, I'll cut the string, I'll cut the for ever: So thoughts and words, so thoughts and de-sire; Which turns mine eyes, which turns mine do the like, I'll cut the string, I'll cut the their lids for ever: So thoughts and words, so thoughts and of de- desire; Which turns mine eyes, which turns mine cut the string that makes the ham- mer strike. thoughts and words and looks shall die to-turns mine eyes to floods, my thoughts to fire.

S

A

T

B

[1] [2]

string that makes the ham- mer strike. Be words and looks shall die to-eyes to floods, my thoughts to fire.

S

A

T

B

[1] [2]

string, the string that makes the ham- mer strike. Be words, and words and looks shall die to-eyes, mine eyes to floods, my thoughts to fire.